

Jon Gangdal, Partner/Senior Advisor

Jon Gangdal is Partner and Senior Advisor. He has 20 years experience from journalism, writing for specialist magazines and local newspapers and the national newspaper Dagbladet. Gangdal was a TV-reporter and leading investigating journalist at the national television channel TV2 and his main area was economy and finance.

He has also been Head of the Press- and Information Department at Oslo Police District and senior communication advisor at the PR-Agencies Geelmuyden.Kiese AS and JKL Woldsdal AS. Gangdal has written five documentary books and four handbooks. In the past fifteen years he has guided and participated at eight climbing expeditions in Himalaya, where three of them have been to the world's highest mountain, Mount Everest.

In the past ten years Gangdal has shared his experiences from management and teamwork under extreme conditions with businesses and organisations. He is specialised at management and team coaching, and he also works with strategic communication planning, media networking and crisis management.